

Table 1. Use of high-value preventive care by women, infants, and children in 2022

Select MCH preventive services included in the Affordable Care Act's free coverage guarantee	2022 volume
Contraception	4,662,374
Well-woman preventive visits	3,224,226
Gestational diabetes screening during pregnancy at 24+ weeks of gestation	300,298
Postpartum diabetes mellitus screening	49,713
Perinatal depression screening	26,271
Newborn screening panel	12,399
DTaP-IPV-Hib-HepB vaccine for infants.	36,651
Fluoride varnish among children 6 months to 5 years old	276,113
Tobacco use interventions for children and adolescents ages 5-17 years old	11,990
Psychosocial/behavioral screening for children and adolescents ages 0-21	3,901,912
Hepatitis C Virus screening in women aged 15 to 49	2,333,917
BRCA-related cancer risk assessment, genetic counseling, and genetic testing	195,819

Table 2. Use of high-value preventive health care among women, infants, and children over time (1.2 billion longitudinal claims in 2018; 2.4 billion longitudinal claims in 2022)

Select MCH preventive services included in the Affordable Care Act's free coverage guarantee	% Increase in member use from 2018-2022
Hepatitis C Screening, women of reproductive health age (18-49)	118.4%
BRCA-related cancer risk assessment, genetic counseling, and genetic testing	94.0%
Psychosocial and behavioral health examinations of children and adolescents	92.9%
Perinatal depression screening (pregnancy through 12 months postpartum)	84.3%
Fluoride varnish infants and young children	55.7%
Newborn screening panel	47.1%
Well-woman visits (adolescent and adult women)	36.8%
Tobacco use interventions, children and adolescents ages 5-17	25.95
Gestational diabetes screening (24 weeks of pregnancy or greater)	12.9%
Contraceptive use, women of reproductive health age	2.7%
Diabetes screening postpartum	2.6%

